

About Lara Logan's Husband - Joseph Burkett

Army veteran Burkett tied the knot with Lara Logan who is a renowned journalist. During her 20 years as a journalist for CBS News' "60 Minutes," Logan was best recognized for her war reporting. There haven't been any new episodes of her most current Fox Nation program, "Lara Logan Has No Agenda," since late 2021. He is well-known figure, but there are some facts about him that you might want to know:

He has a military background

Texas-born Burkett has a strong military history. He completed high school in 1991 at the Marine Military Academy, according to his Facebook page. Burkett revealed that he had attended Pierce College and graduated in 1995. He also mentioned in his post that he attended the University of Texas at Austin. He later served in the American Army. Burkett was described as a soldier in a 2012 New York Times Style Magazine article, and Logan noted that he "had a very secretive job." The New York Post identified Burkett as an employee of the American embassy in Iraq in 2008.

He was employed in intelligence for at least a portion of his military service. Burkett works for INSCOM, the U.S. Army Intelligence and Security Command, according to his Facebook page. According to the U.S. Army website, this division is in charge of carrying out "mission command of security forces and operational intelligence" all over the world. According to People magazine, Burkett was an Army master sergeant when he decided to leave the service.

He has 3 children

Burkett is a father of three, two daughters and a boy. He and his first wife, according to People, had a daughter named Ashley. Logan and Burkett welcomed their first child, Joseph December 2008, according to Fishbowl DC.

Joseph Burkett also has a daughter whom he welcomed in March 2010. He called her Lola Anne. Logan freely discussed her son's learning challenges with People magazine in 2016. He is brilliant and extremely intelligent. But Logan said, "His brain doesn't work the same as mine." According to the magazine, Joseph was found to have dyscalculia, dysgraphia, dyslexia, and hyperactivity/attention-deficit disorder.

He was still a married man when he met and started dating Logan Started

They were still legally married when he began dating Logan. In 2008, his first spouse Kimberly filed for divorce. According to the source, Kimberly Burkett accused Logan of "seducing" her husband. Unnamed by the Post, a friend of Logan's disputed that conclusion. The acquaintance claimed that Joseph and Kimberly Burkett had been separated for 6 months previous to starting a relationship with Logan. The Burkett divorce was finalized in August 2008. Logan was at that time expecting their first child together. Logan informed the New York Times that she married her husband, Burkett in 2008. For more details visit:

<https://biographyresearch.org/the-untold-truth-about-lara-logans-husband-joseph-burkett/>